
achurch & associates is a boutique consultancy giving advice on strategy, architecture and design, helping you make better use of technology in your business. Essentially, our products are discussion, advice, presentations, reports, blog posts, tweets ... we talk, we write, we map capabilities, structures and flow. Behind the words are smart minds, decades of experience and knowledge of business – all the better to help you figure out what, if any, technology you can put to good use, and how.

We can help with enterprise architecture, enabling you to deal effectively with change, whether it is self-initiated or a result of shifts in the operational environment. From strategic thinking about information technology to solution design, we can assist you in selecting systems that support business outcomes.

We also spend the time to keep up with IT trends, and our industry analysis can help your decision-making ... help you decide whether there is value for you in ideas like social media, cloud computing and mobile applications.

Ric Hayman is the principal consultant, and you can find out more about him at his Linkedin profile.

We are based in Adelaide AU, but can work 'virtually' anywhere; and travel in Australia easily, elsewhere in the world by arrangement.
